What we print...

Brewing & BEVERAGE INDUSTRIES BUSINESS Magazine

What we print...and what we won't!

- EDITORIAL is always included free-of-charge. Inclusion is at our discretion. There is no compulsion to advertise to support your editorial, but there are benefits (see page 7).
- Each issue consists of NEWS pages - split into categories - and one or more SHOWCASE features, each defined by its header. Some issues may also contain an EVENT PREVIEW feature, or a FOCUS feature on a particular sector of the market (eg. Cider, Distilling, etc).
- NEWS pages report on new products and services available to UK brewers, distillers, cider makers etc, in addition to very recent case studies involving UK customers. They should be presented to us as being written in the THIRD PERSON. Typical wordage around 350 with a hi-res picture.
- SHOWCASE features can be used by companies to illustrate their offerings to the UK market, be that specific items, or a total package. Case studies are also welcome. These can be presented to us as being written in the FIRST or THIRD PERSON. Typical wordage around 350 with a hi-res picture.
- EVENT PREVIEW and FOCUS features follow the same guidelines as SHOWCASE features.
- We are also happy to include any OBJECTIVE articles, relevant to the UK market, where we can credit a named author. Please note that these articles must be written for us and not offered to other publications, prior to appearing in B&BIB. Typical wordage around 600 with a short biography and a hi-res picture of the author. Some reference to the author's own company's products and services is allowable but must be included in moderation.
- We will NOT print blatant 'advertorials'. We also reserve the right to delete any references to being the 'first', 'biggest', 'best', 'fastest' or similar claims for which independent confirmation is not provided.
